

WILD WEST SHOW RECOGNIZED AS A GOOD THING

Amazingly Big Crowd Clamored for Standing Room After Seats Are All Filled.

NOBLE RED MEN LOOK INTO WHITE TREACHERY

COY CYOTE KID RELUCTANTLY
ADMITS SO MANY PEOPLE
MAKE HIM NERVOUS.

"Fifteen thousand head," remarked J. C. Leary in giving his views as to the number of spectators at the second day's session of his Wild West show.

"Of course, I may be off a few head on this, don't you know," he continued. "Some of them may have got by, but as we get at it, there were fifteen thousand, or thereabouts. That must be some attendance."

There were really two Wild West shows yesterday, the one on the regular program and the other furnished by the throngs fighting for places from which to witness the proceedings. Somebody must have been talking about the show, because folks came by the thousands. The seating capacity had been exhausted before the first event started, but the crowds kept coming as rapidly as the street cars could bring them until standing room was valuable, not only in the regular places for such cases made and provided, but all along the rail on both sides of the track.

The cow punchers endeavored to keep the crowd herded on the outside of the track for a while, but this scheme had to be abandoned after it became evident that there was not enough room on one side of the track to accommodate the audience. The inside rail was soon banked from two to ten persons deep for several hundred feet, the while hundreds of persons roamed about from place to place trying to secure a location from which the performance might be witnessed.

Kid Is Astonished.

Having given one high-class performance the day before, the management really expected a good audience yesterday, but confessed freely after it was all over that the turnout was away beyond expectation.

"Nobody couldn't have figured on no such turnout as this here," said the Coyote Kid, in a formal statement last evening. "It's certainly gone, sprang, us some. It looked there one time as if we might have to hit out for the divide to keep from being suffocated. I got that nervous I couldn't hardly roll no cigarettes for ten or fifteen minutes."

Mr. Leary said some of his trusty retainers, secured to conduct persons to their seats and to maintain order generally, failed to appear, but unprejudiced witnesses say the show and the guardians of the good order of the show were swallowed up in the crowd early in the game and never came to light again until it was all over.

Naturally there was confusion; plenty of it. The fact that it was a holiday was taken into consideration in making the arrangements, but the management did not expect that a large proportion of those who attended the first day would be out again yesterday, but they were out, and they were apparently more anxious to see things than they were the day before.

More Seats Ordered.

Profiting by yesterday's experience, elaborate preparations are being made to care for the crowds today and tomorrow, and it is expected that everything will be arranged so that all the confusion will be contributed by the bronchos and the steers.

Two thousand extra grand stand seats will be in place before today's performance begins, and 3,000 more, a total of 5,000 additional, will be ready for tomorrow's show. These additional seats will undoubtedly provide seating room for all who attend and will make it possible for everybody to see everything.

Trouble With Indians.

One of the most interesting events yesterday becomes more interesting when the "inside" is known. It has to do with a misunderstanding of the motif of the wild horse race.

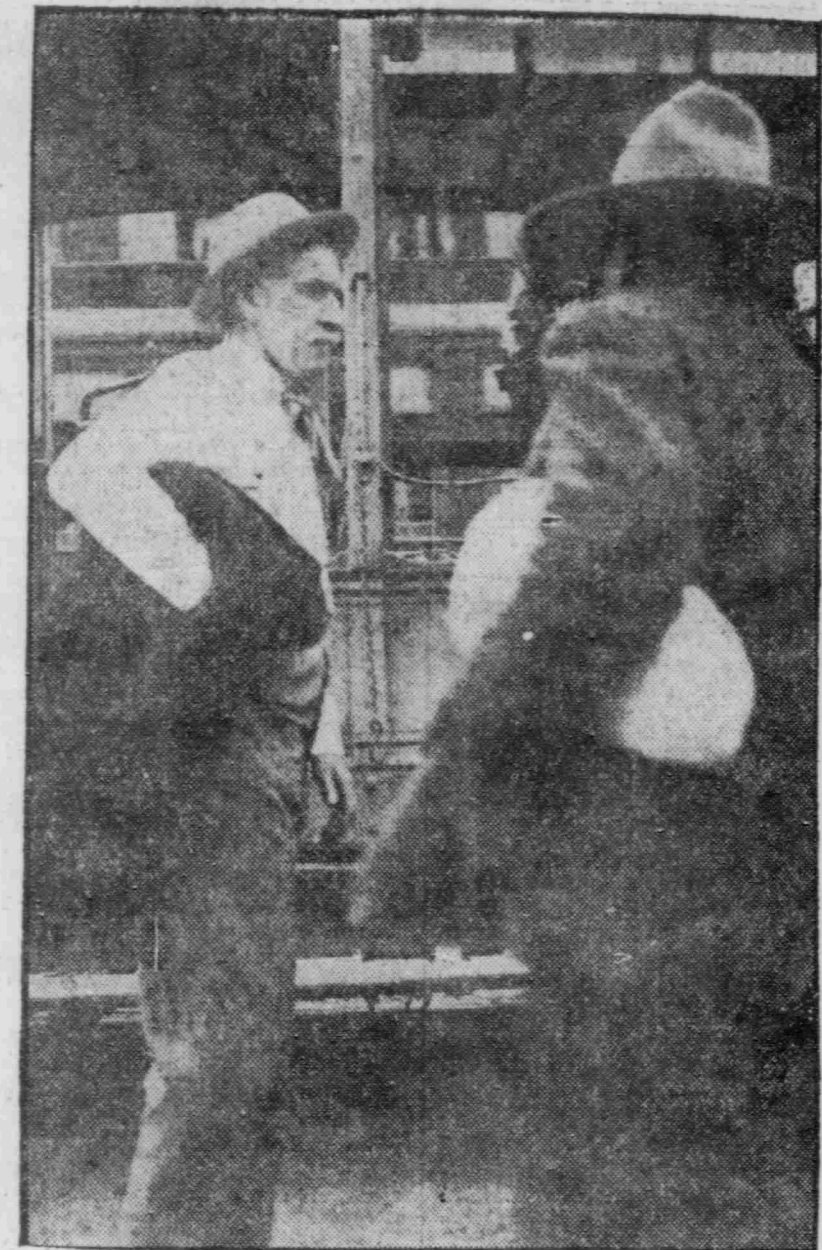

The misunderstanding existed among the Indians, who had a contest entered. This noble red man and his associates had an idea that the wild horse race was in fact, a race at all, but a bucking contest. With this thought in view, they brought forward a "halter broke" cayuse of great fame and bucked as soon as it developed that the cayuse was "halter broke" it was promptly ruled out, and as the horses in this race must be wholly ignorant of any rules.

The Indians at once suspected white man's treachery and were satisfied they were to be cheated. They were persuaded to bring forward an unbroken animal, which a committee of Indians threw to the ground by main strength chiefly and bridled and saddled it without using a blindfold. Still under the impression that the event was a bucking contest, the Indian rider of the animal exerted himself to make the cayuse buck instead of making it run, and as a result did not get into the money at all.

The incident did not end at the track by any means. Manager Leary and the Indians were engaged in a heated power until late last night. Leary trying his best to explain the rules of the contest, while the Indians, Sioux, Cherokee, French and English and sign languages in his efforts to make his meaning clear. The Indians being Bannocks, failed to grasp the situation until Frank Randall, their manager and a master of good English, although an Indian, explained the thing to them. The pipe of peace followed and the Indians will take part in the events of the rest of the week instead of heading back to the reservation, as they at first intended.

The Indians still insist that their man,

Jim Mackie, has not had a fair show yet. They say the stalwart Jim is the best broncho twister extant, and have begun to think that he will have a "right" if he sticks. If he doesn't stick he may still be a good rider. Stepping off Steamboat yesterday and unexpectedly does not mean that a man is not a good rider.

Ladies Arouse Interest.

The ladies' relay race proved a good feature again. Lillie Nicholson and Mrs. Sparks tied for first place in the main heat, with Mrs. Danks second. Miss Nicholson won the second, with Mrs. Sparks second and Mrs. Danks third. The race finished first, but was set back to third because her helper tied one of her relay horses, which is contrary to rule. Mrs. Danks won the third heat, with Miss Nicholson second and Mrs. Sparks third. The race will continue today and tomorrow, the championship to go to the rider who has won the most heats during the meeting.

Miss Nicholson, without making any effort to draw attention to herself, is becoming very popular because of the spirited and clever manner in which she competes. Miss Pilon, who was injured the first day, has not recovered sufficiently to ride.

Charles Irwin, the "old top," was the only contestant in the steer-roping contest that made any sort of time. He got his steer in one minute, and one-half second.

Horses Are Winners.

The horses had a fine day in the bucking contest, with two clean throws and one case of "pulling leather" to their credit. Beaver "blasted" W. R. Thornton and Red Bird "slipped his pack," which consisted of Dudley Stevenson, Steamboat, the old reliable, made Dave Sparks "pull leather" in order to keep up with the parade.

Alex. Lawrence will go tomorrow chance. Alex. Lawrence will go tomorrow chance. Alex. Lawrence will go tomorrow chance.

Ed McDonald made a good, straight ride on Archbishop and put up the best exhibition of the day. He is likely to come close to the money, according to expert observers.

Chas. Irwin, the "old top," was the only contestant in the steer-roping contest that made any sort of time. He got his steer in one minute, and one-half second.

Stub Farlow, Ed McConnell, Baking Powder Biscuit and Sam Scoville finished the wild horse race in the order given. W. R. Thornton got the prize for having the worst horse.

Goldie St. Clair's ride on the bucking Red Danter was one of the early and good events. From the noises made it was evident that those in the grand stand had more misgivings regarding the outcome than the rider himself, who stayed with the tossing brute as if it were all part of her day's work, which, indeed, it is.

This afternoon's performance will begin at 2 o'clock, as usual.

Manager Leary varied his announced program by failing to appear in his cuirass uniform yesterday. Instead he was attired as a British duke at an afternoon tea at Balmoral castle.

Today's program follows:

Event 1—Indian pony race; first, $10; second, $5; third, $2.50.

Event 2—Potato race; two teams; purse, $25.

Event 3—Steer riding; spectacle.

SCHOOL CENSUS SHOWS A LOSS

Influx of Greeks Given as the Cause of Depletion of Pupils.

There was a falling off of 200 in the school population of Ogden according to the figures turned in by the census enumerators, compared with the school population of a year ago. The falling off is particularly noticeable in the Second ward and is accounted for by the moving out of families with children in school and the moving in of Greeks.

The enumerators have been at work for some time in taking the school census. The first returns from some of the wards were so unsatisfactory that the enumerators were sent back to verify their figures.

In the Second ward, in addition to the moving out of Americans and the moving in of Greeks, fully fifty empty houses were found.

These families, most of them, have moved to various parts of Nevada. The total school population according to the verified figures given out by Miss Ivy Williams, the clerk of the board of education, is 6,775. These are divided as follows among the five wards: First ward, 1,426; Second ward, 950; Third ward, 1,177; Fourth ward, 1,624; Fifth ward, 1,597.

OREGON SHORT LINE LETS BRANCH LINE CONTRACT

Utah Construction Company Will Build Road From Rupert to Bliss.

Information has been received at the headquarters of the Utah Construction company in this city that it has been awarded the contract for still another extension of the Oregon Short Line in Idaho.

This last contract covers a branch road building on the north side of the Snake river from Rupert on the Minidoka & Southwestern branch to Bliss on the main line, 125 miles west of Pocatello.

The branch to be built under the contract is 73 miles long. W. H. Watis, of the Utah Construction company, came from Idaho yesterday, where he had been looking over work there, and Warren L. Watis, who is in charge of the construction work in that state, is expected in the city in a couple of days.

ARRESTS EXPECTED IN CRUSADE FOR PURE FOOD

Eight Meat Dealers and Two Dairy-men Likely to Be Prosecuted.

Butchers and milk dealers of Ogden are about to feel the strong arm of the law. Eight meat dealers and at least two milk dealers have been found violating the law. The evidence was collected by City Sanitary Inspector George Shorten and a representative of the state pure food commission.

The matter has now been turned over to County Attorney David Jensen and the expectation is that warrants will be issued for the arrest of the men in a day or two.

According to a statement made by Inspector Shorten, the meat dealers were found selling meat that had been doctored with injurious preservatives, and in one case the meat being sold was actually rotten.

A close inspection has been made of the milk offered for sale and while most of it is good, two dealers must answer for selling doctored milk.

SALT LAKE & OGDEN ROAD COMMENCES WORK

Work was started by the Salt Lake & Ogden Railway company yesterday on Lincoln avenue, under the amended franchise granted the company two weeks ago. This gives the Bamberger road the exclusive right of way through the city limits. It is taken for granted that the amended franchise has been accepted and it is the intention of the company to have its permanent tracks in position on Lincoln avenue before that street is paved. This means that it must be done at once.

Beaten by Chauffeur.

Mark Reed of Roy, who was badly beaten by an automobilist at Riverdale Tuesday evening, was in the city yesterday, making arrangements to have a complaint sworn out against the man who assaulted him. He does not know the name of any of the men who were in the automobile, but the number of the car was 159, and the register kept by the secretary of state shows this to be the car of Charles McClure of Tremonton.

AMUSEMENTS

Four capacity houses have already greeted "The Merry Widow" at the Salt Lake theatre. No play in years has drawn so well and so pleased the audiences that gathered to see it. The bill runs the rest of the week.

Booth Tarkington, who, with Harry Leon Wilson, wrote "Cameo Kirby," which will be seen at the Salt Lake theatre next week, with Dustin Farnum as Kirby, served two terms as a member of the Indiana legislature. Mr. Tarkington would have been a popular Hoosier lawmaker if he had smoked "stogies" instead of Turkish cigarettes in the state capitol, says his biographer.

Two crowded houses witnessed the excellent show provided by the Orpheum management yesterday, and this despite the heat and the many counter attractions. The bill will run on Sunday at 3, with matinees daily except Sunday.

Miss Anna Cleveland and the excellent company producing "At Valley Forge" at the Bungalow have made the re-opening of that house a decided success. The great revolutionary war drama has proved one of the chief features of the week and the audiences have grown with each presentation. There will be a matinee on Saturday afternoon. Next week "The New Magdalen" is announced.

The Willard Mack and Blanche Douglas players turned people away last night where "Held by the Enemy" was a potent attraction. Next on Sunday at 3, "The New Magdalen" is announced.

Two crowded houses greeted "Coronation" at the Colonial yesterday afternoon and last night. This performance was perfect and called forth loud applause from time to time. The big audiences were not slow to show their favor for the company, the ballet, the chorus and the scenery. The engagement will continue until Saturday night, with a matinee Saturday.

PROVO NEWS NOTES.

Provo, Aug. 11.—Provo had a holiday today. Acting Mayor Smith having issued a proclamation to that effect. Many people went to Salt Lake to see the G. A. R. parade.

Walter Denver of Vineyard was arrested last evening by Sheriff Judd who says he will also arrest George Hanley if he can find him. Sheriff Judd charges that both young men were drunk Sunday. While they drove through Vineyard at Lakeview it is alleged Hanley acted in a drunken and disorderly manner. The engagement will continue until Saturday night, with a matinee Saturday.
